

PRUEarly Stage Crisis Cover

We understand you want support right from the beginning.

The earlier an illness is diagnosed, the higher the chance for a full recovery. PRUEarly Stage Crisis Cover offers financial support from the early stages of critical illnesses[1] – making it easier for you to concentrate on a full recovery. The first plan of its kind to cover selected diabetic complications[2], PRUEarly Stage Crisis Cover also offers additional reassurance with a S$3,000 death benefit. Future premiums are waived after the first claim is made under the 50% Severity Payout.

Payout for early stage critical illness can help you:

supplement loss of income and manage the additional expenses incurred during the period of recuperation

support your family's ongoing financial commitments offset hospitalisation and treatment costs

[1] The full list of benefits covered and their definitions may be found in the product summary that can be obtained from your Prudential Financial Representative. For certain medical conditions, there is a waiting period of 90 days from the date of issue or reinstatement whichever is later. Survival period is applicable before a claim can be made.

[2] There is a waiting period of 90 days from the date of issue or reinstatement whichever is later. Survival period is applicable before a claim can be made. We will only pay provided the policy is not terminated or fully claimed. A claim under the Special Benefit will not reduce the sum assured of PRUEarly Stage Crisis Cover.
